October Newsletter

In this month's newsletter, we offer timely insights and resources to help keep your financial strategy on track and forward-thinking.

Life insurance can be a key component of any comprehensive financial plan, help protect your loved ones and help ensure their financial security.

Though life insurance isn't always the easiest topic to discuss, it plays a vital role in protecting your family, preserving your estate, and even safeguarding your business.

My team and I, are here to help find the right strategies for yourself and your family based on your unique needs and wishes.

What's Next After the Fed's Rate Cut

When the U.S. Federal Reserve cut its benchmark interest rate by a half-point last week, it began a rate-cutting cycle that follows one of the most aggressive rate-hiking cycles in decades. While relieved equity investors pushed the S&P 500 Index to a new all-time high, and even as the rate cut boosts the likelihood of an economic soft landing, the question remains: What's next?

Since life insurance is medically underwritten, you should not cancel your current policy until your new policy is in force. A change to your current policy may incur charges, fees and costs. A new policy will require a medical exam. Surrender charges may be imposed and the period of time for which the surrender charges apply may increase with a new policy. You should consult with your own tax advisors regarding your potential tax liability on surrenders.
