

September Newsletter

[Client Preferred Name]

As summer winds down and September settles in, I hope this season finds you refreshed and ready for what's ahead. For those with students in their lives—whether heading off to kindergarten or returning to campus—I send my best wishes for a successful and inspiring school year filled with growth, discovery, and new opportunities.

In this month's newsletter, we're looking at some of the most dynamic shifts shaping our world and the markets. From nuclear energy's growing role in the global conversation, to artificial intelligence moving into the driver's seat—literally—and the future of investment tied to the expanding reach of global sports, there is much to consider as we look forward.

As always, if you'd like to further discuss these insights or revisit your plan, please don't hesitate to reach out.

Warm regards,

James W. Hopwood

AI Is Coming to Your Steering Wheel

Adoption of vehicles with partial to full automation is likely to accelerate, creating a $200 billion opportunity for automakers, hardware and software companies in the next five years.

Nuclear Renaissance
Gains Momentum

With technology driving ever-increasing energy demand, global capacity for nuclear energy could more than double by 2050.

Global Sports Industry
and Technology |
Morgan Stanley

The sports industry, which is lagging other sectors in technology adoption, could increase its annual revenue by 25% if it closes that digital gap.
